A few days ago Master Samuel M. Eichberg, aged about eleven years, son of Mr.

A. Eichberg, of this city, sent to President Harrison a handsome crayon likeness in pencil of the President. As a piece of art the likeness was a most excellent one.
Yesterday the following reply was received.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, 1 WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29, 1889. Master Samuel M. Eichberg, Petersburg, Va. Master Samuel M. Eichberg, Priersburg, Va.

My Dear Young Friend,—The President directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your drawing and to thank you for your kindness. He also desires that you will accept the enclosed eard with his best wishes. Very truly yours.

E. W. Halpour, Private Secretary.

The enclosed eard is a handsome lithograph of the White House with the signature of the President, "Benjamin Harrison."

During the year 505 deaths were reported to the Health Officer, three fifths of which occurred among the colored population.

Some of the telegraphic reports sent abroad on Saturday relative to the damage by the flood in this vicinity were rather exaggerated. The only bridge washed away here was a frail foot-bridge erected for temporary convenience their Campbell's bridge. The fresher in the river does not begin to compare with that of several weeks ago.

On the 1st of August for the first time in many years the Democrate will have a majority in the Public School Roard of this city. This changes will doubtless result in some other changes in the school system here—not, probably, in the corps of teachers.

At the Theological Seminary and Episcopal High School-Prizes, Graduates, &c. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

either, ay night, June 23d, the final sermon the boys of the High School was ed to them and a large congregation in the chapel of the Theological ing the service and the school organist and choir supplying the music. The Right Rev. Leighton Coleman, S. T. D., LL. D., bishop of Belaware, was the preacher.

On Monday the last examinations at the seminary took place and the following day the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees. The meeting being of course private not much is given out for publication, but it is understood that measures looking generally toward the further improvement of the seminary premises were imagurated. Joseph Bryan, Esq., of Richmond, was elected a member of the board and Professor Crawford was appointed to canvass for additional funds. The seminary is now in vigorous life, with numbers unequalled since the war and prospects of further increase. Another residence will be crected this summer for the use of Professor Grammar, who is about to be married.

Thesday night occurred the joint final celebration of the literary societies of the High School, enlivened by an excellent band. R. Colston Blackford, of Lynchburn, presided for the Pairfax, and Charles T. Refisnider, Jr., of Maryland, for the Blackford Society. The medals for reading, declaiming, and debating in the former were taken by Addison W. Greenway, of Arkansas; James M. Mason, Jr., of West Virginia; and Edward D. Gregory, of Lynchburg. In the latter by W. Chase Adams, of King William; William E. Peters, Jr., of the University of Virginia; and Eugene Blackford, Jr., of Maryland, respectively. Milliam M. Fletcher, of Rappabannock, was joint valedictorian. The ammal address—an excellent one—was made by the Rev. Arthur B. Kinsolving, of Richmond county. LITERARY SOCIETIES.

made by the Rev. Arthur B. Kinsolving, of Richmond county.

Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock the almuni of the seminary met for business. In the absence of the Rev. George A. Smith (class of 1923), who was ill and has since died, Bishop Whittle occupied the chair. There was a large attendance and much interest manifested. At noon the annual essay was read, this year by the Rev. H. Melville Jackson, D. D., of Richmond, on "Comparative Religions," By universal consent it was in his best vein and a paper of singular ability. It will be published in the July number of the Seminary Magazine. CLOSING EXERCISES.

CLOSING EXPECISES.

Three o'clock Wednesday afternoon was the hour for the closing exercises of the session at the High School, though in order to gan time on this occasion the distribution of certificates had taken place in the morning. The opening prayer was made by Bishop Peterkin, of West Virginia. Prizes in edocution were given to William E. Peters, Jr., of the University; James M. Mason, Jr., of West Virginia: Page Van R. Stires, of Norfolk, and Thomas Pinckney. Jr., of South Carolina. The prizes for scholarship, of which the Meade is the highest, were distributed as follows: Whittle prize to N. R. Craighill, of West Virginia; J. H. Fletcher, of Rappahannock; G. A. C. Lehman, of Montana; J. M. Mason, Jr., of South Carolina; E. P. Ravenel, of South Carolina; E. P. Ravenel, of South Carolina; and W. H. Randolph, of Henrico. Johns prize to Henry C. Riely, of Halifax, Meade prize to W. M. Fletcher, E. D. Gregory, of Lynchburg, and W. W. Old, Jr., of Norfolk. The medals, all the gifts of friends of the school, were bestowed as follows: Luggett jumor prize medal for excellence in general scholarship to Henry Carrington Reily, of Halifax. Potts prize medal for excellence in English composition to Thomas Pinckney, Jr., of South Carolina, Hanewinckel prize medal for excellence in English composition to Thomas Pinckney, Jr., of South Carolina, Hanewinckel prize medal for excellence in English composition to Thomas Pinckney, Jr., of South Carolina, Hanewinckel prize medal for excellence in English composition to Thomas Pinckney, Jr., of South Carolina, Hanewinckel prize medal for excellence in English composition to Thomas Pinckney, Jr., of South Carolina, Hanewinckel prize medal for excellence in mathematics in Nathaniel Rutherford Craighil, of West Virginia.

The exercises closed with the Te Deum and benediction pronounced by Bishop Whittle.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL.

Immediately after their close a meeting took place (without change of audience) of peculiar interest and one which had been duly arranged beforehand. This was a semi-centennial remaion of Old Boys, of whom about seventy had accepted invitations to be present. Mr. Joseph Packard, Jr., of Baltimore, presided. A short address of welcome in behalf of the boys of to-day was made by Edward D. Gregory, of Lynchburg, and a historical sketch of the school was read by the Principal. Then followed addresses from the Rev. Dr. Packard, of the seminary, as the person present who had known the place longest, and from Major John Page, of Hanover, an under-master during the first four years of its eristence. Remarks at greater or less length were then made by the following old boys: Colonel Edmund Berkeley, and of Alexandria; Bishop Whittle; Rev. C. Walker, D. D., of the seminary; Captain W. Fitzhagh Carter, of Baltimore; Professor B. C. Berkeley, M. A. of the West Virginia University; Mr. Joseph Bryan, of Richmond; Bishop Peterkin, of West Virginia; Mr. R. Walton Moon, of Fairfax; Dr.

Charles L. Minor, of New York; and Mr. (now the Rev.) Lucien L. Kinsolving, of Halifax. At the conclusion of the speaking, which lasted about two bours, the whole company were entertained at a handsome collation.

Wednesday night in the chapel of the seminary the annual sermon before the Missionary Society was preached by the Rev. I. Newton Stanger, D. D., of New York, evening prayer having first been said by the Rev. R. A. Castleman, of Westmoreland. At the close of his sermon Dr. Stanger read a letter he had recently received from the venerable H. Dyer, D. D., of New York, in which he spoke of the Virginia Seminary as being now more needed than ever by the general Church, and exhorted its friends to take the most active measures for its advancement.

Thursday was the day of the seminary commencement, At 11 A. M., in the chapel, in the presence of the Bishop, the faculty, and numerous friends, the graduating class read their essays. The names of the graduates, with the subjects of their essays, are appended:

appended:

After the essays a bountiful luncheon was served, and at 4 P. M. the diplomas were conferred and the graduates addressed by the Rev. R. T. Davis, D. D., of Leesburg.

Vesterday (Friday) was ordination day, and a large congregation was present. At 11 A. M. the Bishop and Assistant Bishop of Virginia and the Bishop of West Virginia entered the chancel, and the surpliced procession of candidates for deacons and priests' orders filed into the chapel and were sented in front. Morning prayer was said by the Rev. Alexander Y. Hundley, of Maryland, and the sermon preached by the Rev. George Herbert Kinsolving, of Philadelphia, on I. Cornthians, in., 5: "Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers by whom ye bes Apollos, but ministers by whom ye be lieve?"

Mr. R. A. Rodrick, of West Virginia, was then presented by the Rev. J. S. Gibson, examining chaplain to Bishop Peterkin. The rest of the graduates (except Mr. Helfenstein, recently ordained in Maryland, and Mr. McManus, soon to be elsewhere) were presented by the Rev. R. A. Crawford to Bishop Whittle, and all were ordained deacous, the Rev. B. A. Rodrick scaling the Gorde The Rev. C. E. were ordained deacons, the Rev. R. A. Rodrick reading the Gospel. The Rev. C. E. Grammer presented the Revs. John C. Ambler, Charles Gauss, and John P. Tyler to Bishop Randolph, by whom they were advanced to the priesthood, Messrs. Crawford, Grammer, and Kinsolving uniting in the imposition of hards. The Holy Communion was celebrated by Bishop Whittle, assisted by Bishop Randolph.

Besides the faculty and other elergy already mentioned, there were present the Revs. J. E. Grammer, D. D., C. K. Nelson, D. D., W. H. H. Powers, Theodore Reed, and Henry Thomas, of Maryland; L. L.
